

Waiariki Institute of Technology invites you to submit original abstracts to be considered for the 2nd Edition of He Kupu Whakataki – Journal of Best Practice in Applied and Maori/Indigenous Vocational Education.

At the request of the Journals Editorial Board, and in response to the Tertiary Education Commissions request for more research based articles in the 2010 edition of He Kupu Whakataki Journal of Best Practice in Applied Maori/Indigenous Vocational Education. We have revised and broadened the theme of article submissions to include the following areas.

Updated Themes for Article Submissions

- A. Student Success & Retention
- B. Policy development and implementation
- C. Workplace practice and trends
- D. The utilisation and protection of indigenous assets
- E. Vocational education, training and research
- F. The transfer of indigenous knowledge
- G. Indigenous labour market issues

Updated Timeline

We have also extended the timeframe to allow for more quality research.

- Article submission deadline July 31st 2010
- Peer review process completed August 15th 2010
- Editing and formatting completed August 30th 2010
- Deadline for print and production September 15th 2010
- Final Publishing date September 31st 2010

This is a fantastic opportunity for you/your colleagues/your Masters or PHD Students to;

1. Become officially published
2. Help shape the way Maori/Indigenous people are being taught
3. Share your valuable knowledge with others in the industry who have the power to enforce change
4. Contribute to the success and retention of Maori/Indigenous students
5. Gain international recognition

Please note: All rights are reserved by the authors. Please see contributor's notes for more details.

All queries and submissions to be sent to:

Ngapera Riley, Project Manager
Waiariki Institute of Technology
ngapera.riley@waiariki.ac.nz
07 346 8461